The Ballot in Virginia-In two or more quarters we see a dis-"jump on" the Anderson-McCormick election-law. It is held answerable for many crimes-of most of which, however, it would be acquitted before any impartial tribunal. In the great majority of cases the mer who were appointed registrars, judges, and commissioners of election by the electoral boards would have been appointed to those positions had the county and city judges been the appointing power at the last election as they were at the elections held some years ago.

In the city of Richmond, certainly, the electoral board has placed honest men in charge of the registration lists and ballot-boxes. If the boards elsewhere have been as faithful and circumspect as the Richmond board has been our judges

If the boards in Norfolk, Danville, Petersburg or elsewhere have been less freumspect than ours then the people of hose communities should rise up and demand their removal. But we cannot consent to a condemnation of the whole system upon the suspicion that because the Democrats carried this, that, or the other county by a large majority there

Miss Halcolm, who lives near Captain Hasse's residence, and who is a friend of Mrs. Wheat, called on the day in question, and as it was the first time she and Mrs. Wheat had met since the death of Miss Halcolm's brother Charles they naturally talked about him considerably. After dinner the party repaired to the veranda to make the picture. Nothing unusual was noticed by anyone, and no further thought of the picture was given by Mr. Wheat till to-day when he opened the package from the kodak factory, when to his amazement he found a perfect likeness of Charles Halcolm standing immediately back of his sister on the We observe in the newspapers which allege, or at least insinuate, that the late lection, in whole or in part, was won sition to particularize or localize their charges. Mr. Halcolm was well-known among a certain set in Wheeling, and nearly all of them have seen his picture to-day, and all recognized it. Hundreds of others and all recognized it. Hundreds of others have seen the wonderful picture to-day, and several photographers who have been called in are unable to give any explanation of the phenomenon.

Mr. Wheat, who made the picture, is the head of the firm of Wheat & Hancher, the leading jewelers of the city, and a man of stability and merit. He is not a photographer, and merely took the camera along on his recent visit to get some views of his wife's homestead. The inauguration of Governor O'Ferrall will, no doubt, eclipse any similar event in the history of Virginia, and it ought to. While a few grumblers are still protesting that he is not the choice of the people, these same people go right on denying the charge by the most emphatic demonstrations of sincere regard. Every sign from O'Ferrall's lonely accusers seems to increase the devotion of the people to him in every part of the State.

ANOTHER RING CAUSES TROUBLE. Miss Padgett Has a Young Man Arrested

But He Is Discharged. Some of the young ladies of Henrico county appear to be getting along very badly with their gentlemen friends, or perhaps the shoe fits the other foot. At any rate, the county officials have recently had their attention called to two cases where the "course of true love" was not as smooth as it might have been, and in both instances rings were the cause of all the trouble. A few days ago Squire Vincent acted as peace-maker for a young lady who claimed that a former admirer of hers had in his possession one of her rings, which he refused to return. The maristrate wisely had the matter settled before it got into court, but yesterlay Squire Tyler had to perform the painful duty of holding an investigation in the case of a young man who was charged with the larceny of a "hoop of gold," valued at something like £36, which belonged to an aggrieved maid who wanted justice.
